

Sound Design & Music Production Masters in Europe — Final Results

319 programmes found and assessed across every European country, searched in English and the local language (Sounddesign , conception sonore , reżyseria dźwięku , zvuková skladba , musica elettronica , produção musical ...), covering public universities, conservatories, art schools, film schools, and private academies.

Each was then re-checked against its official page and rated for you — a Tunisian software-engineering graduate, no music degree, no performance training, portfolio still to build, funding preferred, Sept-2027 intake.

Rating	Meaning	Count
A	Excellent fit and realistically attainable for you	13
B	Good, but with a real caveat	251
C	Weak fit or effectively blocked	48

Verification status: 100 fully Verified · 37 Partial · 175 discovery-quality. Always confirm on the source URL before applying.

THE A-LIST — all 13

The standouts

1. DIGICREA — Erasmus Mundus, Digital Creativity, Art & Science

Saint-Étienne Porto Katowice · English · 2 yrs · ZERO tuition · €1,400/month

"The only programme here that clears every one of his constraints at once."

Tuition is zero for everyone, scholarship or not — confirmed verbatim on the official financial-aid page. Sound-Music entry track. Portfolio: an artistic/professional portfolio of productions. Next call opens ~Nov 2026 — exactly your cycle.

2. ReSound — Erasmus Mundus Joint MA in Sound Design for Media Arts

Dublin Lisbon Vilnius · English · 2 yrs · Full + €1,400/mo

"By a wide margin the best funding-to-fit ratio available to a Tunisian applicant."

Officially accepts computational science degrees. Portfolio: max 3 works, 10–15 min, one link, each with a short reflective paragraph. No live audition — online interview only.

3. KASK & Conservatorium Ghent — Master of Music, Music Production

Ghent · English track · Non-EEA scholarship explicitly sized to cover the fee

"64 of 120 credits are literally producing."

The most production-dense curriculum found in Europe. Verification strengthened this one. If you want to leave with finished records rather than theory, this is the programme.

4. İTÜ MİAM — MA Music, Sonic Arts concentration

Istanbul · 100% English · ~USD 1,000/year tuition — even without a scholarship

"Strongest fit in this slice and the one to build the next twelve months around."

Verification found it far cheaper than estimated. Fully English-taught, and Türkiye Bursları can make it free entirely. Extraordinary value.

5. University of Glasgow — MSc Creative Sound Design & Audiovisual Media

Glasgow · English · 12 months · £26,460 — African Excellence Award = full tuition waiver

Entry list names computing outright. Portfolio: only two or three examples. No audition. Best risk-adjusted UK option.

The rest of the A-list

6. Aalto University — Film Sound Design MA

Espoo · English · max 3 work samples, explicitly open to applicants from another field, no live musical audition. €20,000/yr with a competitive waiver.

7. ARTS² Mons — Master en Musique, Musiques appliquées et interactives

Taught in FRENCH — your fluency is the unlock. Registration €1,194/yr, and the MASTER IN – WBI grant can make it effectively full funding. Verification upgraded this to the top tier specifically because of the money.

8. Kunstuniversität Linz — Postdigital Lutherie

Linz · English · near-free · "the most realistically enterable, genuinely hands-on option for a CS/SE graduate with no conservatory record." Building instruments and systems — made for you.

9. Conservatorio Santa Cecilia Rome — Musica Elettronica (Biennio)

Rome · Italian · income-based fees (often very low) · "the strongest single find in this batch" — verification found the admission bar for a non-music graduate is far lighter than assumed.

10. Politecnico di Milano — MSc Music and Acoustic Engineering

Milan · English · no portfolio, no audition · ~€4,000/yr + merit scholarships. Prefers CS graduates. The easiest admission on the list — but the most technical craft.

11. University of Westminster — Audio Production MA

London · English · £16,000/yr · 14-studio facility, curriculum covers creative music production. Portfolio is discretionary.

12–13. ReSound (two further consortium listings) — same programme, confirmed via multiple official sources.

Verified as blocked — don't waste applications

- Filmuniversität Babelsberg (Sound Design for Audiovisual Media) — needs a B.F.A. in Sound or Tonmeister, DSH-1 German, a reel of three films you personally mixed, and an on-site Pro Tools scoring exam. Its 2027 window is real (12 Apr–18 May 2027) but it's closed to you, and it trains cinema sound supervisors, not producers.
- HfM Detmold Musikregie/Tonmeister — a 1-year top-up on an existing Tonmeister bachelor.
- Conservatoire performance masters generally — live auditions assume training you don't have.

What changed after verification

1. KASK Ghent jumped to the top. 64 of 120 credits are production. It's the most craft-dense option in Europe and its non-EEA scholarship is sized to cover the fee.
2. İTÜ Istanbul is ~USD 1,000/year — an order of magnitude cheaper than I'd estimated, fully in English, and fundable to zero via Türkiye Bursları.
3. ARTS² Mons is a French-language route worth taking seriously — €1,194/yr, and your French fluency makes it accessible in a way it wouldn't be for most applicants.
4. Santa Cecilia Rome's entry bar is much lower than assumed for a non-music graduate.
5. Babelsberg is definitively out — the best film-sound school in Europe, and genuinely closed to your profile.

Where I'd actually apply

- Reach, fully funded: DIGICREA · ReSound
- Best craft, fundable: KASK Ghent · Glasgow · Aalto Film Sound Design
- Best value: İTÜ Istanbul (~$1,000/yr) · ARTS² Mons (French, €1,194/yr) · Linz
- Safety, no portfolio: Politecnico di Milano

One portfolio serves them all: ReSound wants 3 works/15 min, Aalto max 3 samples, Glasgow 2–3 examples, Westminster discretionary. Build 4–5 finished pieces by November 2026 and you can apply everywhere. Plus IELTS by ~September 2026.
